DRIFT INTO INSANITY.

Tendency Among Life Prisoners in Connecticut Discussed.

Hartford, Coun., Dec. 30,-A tendency to insanity among life prisoners is pointed out by the directors of the state prison in their annual report to Governor Roberts yesterday. The report says:

"The ratio of life convicts continues to be commandingly higher than may be found in most American prisons. Of the 473 prisoners undergoing confinement, more than 12 per cent of the entire number are serving life sentences.

The periods of their individual confinement range from a few mouths to 46 years, and the aggregate length of imprisonement served by them foots up approximately 743 years—a striking and melancholy total, which is equivalent to nearly 25 generations of human life and which, translated into terms of history, would cover a span of years be-ginning more than half a century prior to the signing of the Magna Charta at Runnymede in 1215 and extending to the close of the war between Russia and

"With just enough exceptions to prove the rule, this large body of life prisoners is orderly and well behaved, although not unnaturally the tendency of them to drift into insanity is much greater than obtains among other convicts."
